10 AM - Next, visit the KREMAYRHAUS STADTMUSEUM, which is only 300 meters from the Storchenviese, address: Rathausplatz. Tel +43 2685 502

The Museum showcases in its permanent exhibition the art collection of Rudolf Kremayr, the last owner of the house who gifted it to the Free City of Rust in 1986. He was one of the founders of the DONAULAND publishing house in Austria!

On two floors, there are farmer's furniture from Western Austria, which are lovingly arranged. A special object is a tiled stove made by the artist

Koschka in 1895, which had traveled half the world before finding its final destination in Rust.

The stove represents a so-called "poor man's bible." Furthermore, various paintings, tapestries, and furniture are on display, which shed a special light on the 17th-century house.

In addition, important pieces from the Rust City Archive are exhibited, including the most important document of the city - namely the one regarding its elevation to a Free City.

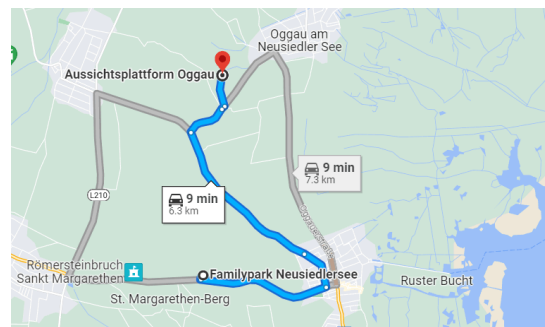

Throughout the year, the collection is enriched by special exhibitions such as the Easter market and Christmas exhibition, as well as works by contemporary artists.
